

2017: NAEA Arts and Anti-Bullying Prevention

Through a competitive application process, art teacher, Vanessa Paccione was chosen to present at the National Art Education Association Conference with Dr. Gene Neglia of Rowan University in New York City in March of 2017. The presentation topic "Using the Visual Arts as an Intervention and Prevention to Bullying" is based on a three year investigation of how arts integration, in correlation with mandated anti-bullying programs, may not only reduce instances of bullying but also build a more positive school climate.

